

Introduction to Moodle

Moodle.Nottingham is the University's online learning environment. Here you will find resources to support your learning such as files, handouts, videos and audio, web links and Announcements. You can take part in activities such as forums, submit assignments or collaborate online. The resources and activities available are chosen by your lecturers and vary from module to module.

Log onto Moodle using your usual University username and password. Go to <https://moodle.nottingham.ac.uk>

Navigating around Moodle

The first page is the Dashboard. Your Module overview is split between the Timeline tab (showing you upcoming events and deadlines in all your modules) and the Courses tab which is split into In Progress, for current 18-19 and ongoing modules, Future and Past modules. We recommend using this page for accessing your modules: it's easy to return to this page via the Dashboard link (top left under the University logo). Click Customise this page to be able to drag and drop your modules into the order you prefer.

Don't worry if only core modules appear – optional modules will appear after you have completed the module entry form, handed it in, and it has been processed. Once you have made your module choices and they have been added to your record, they will appear in your Moodle list on the next working day.

Some modules allow you to self-enrol – so you can look before you decide. You may not see all of the modules you expect to see immediately – please do not panic. Lecturers will make modules visible to you when they have finished preparing the module. Check with friends on the same course.

Site Home (where you can search for modules whether you're enrolled on them or not), My media, calendar and private files, as well as a short list of modules, Library Search and library help, Studying Effectively resources, HELP for Moodle, Accessibility controls and Timetable are linked from the Navigation menu on the top right of the page (see right).

The module page

Each module has its own online space. All resources and activities for your module are linked from the centre column. Assignments may be submitted online via Turnitin or Moodle Assignment. The left and right columns contain blocks, which display other useful information such as links to School news and events. (The exact number and combination of blocks varies by module.) Another example is the Upcoming events block which links to the calendar. The calendar/Upcoming events on your Dashboard shows events for all modules: you can add your own events to your calendar, export calendar information and subscribe (and synchronise with other devices) via iCAL.

Read emails!

Moodle sends out emails to your University address only. Depending on your personal profile settings, mails from Moodle may arrive individually or as a once-a-day Digest. The Digest is called "Moodle.Nottingham Forum Digest". If you prefer, you can change your profile settings to receive separate emails or Digests (see the Help website for how to do this).

Please check your email regularly: It's important you do read these emails as they can contain vital information about your module, not available elsewhere. (Check Clutter & Junk!)

Announcements can also be read in the Announcements in the side column on module pages.
